Creating value through future based ideas development

Anne Skare Nielsen, Managing partner, Futurist

If you have ever felt dazed and confused about the direction you should take in the future, you have definitely found the right person. Anne is both a tornado who will lift you up and broaden your horizon, and the quiet, calm centre that will make it easy for you to see what your role in the future is. She regularly works with large international corporations and is used in the media as a futurist expert within many fields. In addition, she is in great demand across Europe as a keynote speaker and provocateur.

She is a member of The Chaos Pilots Pedagogical Council, The Global Future Forum, the Albright Group, former member of the Danish Ministry of Science, Technology and Innovation's ICT-forum and The Ethical Council, and she serves as an ambassador for Strategy Lab's Innovation Governance mission.

Anne was born in Denmark in 1971. She is a Biologist and Master in Political Science from the University of Copenhagen. She lives in Dragoer with the love of her life and their four sons.

Anne Specializes in:

- Good energy and leadership
- New value creation in products and services
- Reprogramming yourself for success and innovation
- Ethics & things that Last
- Applications for new technologies
- Cool educations and the future labour market.
